Net income before discontinued operations for the September 2003 quarter was approximately $6.3 million, compared to approximately $6.2 million for the June 2003 quarter and a loss before discontinued operations and the cumulative effect of adoption of SFAS 143 of approximately $2.3 million for the September 2002 quarter. Earnings per diluted share before discontinued operations for the September 2003 quarter were approximately $0.05, compared to earnings per diluted share of approximately $0.05 for the June 2003 quarter and a loss before discontinued operations and the cumulative effect of adoption of SFAS 143 of approximately $0.02 for the September 2002 quarter. Net income for the September 2003 quarter was impacted by an increase in income tax expense as the Company's effective tax rate increased from the prior quarter.

During the September 2003 quarter, industry conditions improved modestly. Pricing for well service equipment and drilling rigs remained constant. Rig hours for the September 2003 quarter totaled approximately 618,400, representing a 2.8% increase over total rig hours of approximately 601,800 for the June 2003 quarter and a 12.2% increase over total rig hours of approximately 551,100 for the September 2002 quarter.

In late September and through October to date, activity has moderated in the U.S. land market in several of the Company's operating regions, with several major and large independent producers having reduced production services spending. Total weekly rig hours are currently averaging approximately 46,300 per week compared to approximately 48,400 in August. Our customers have indicated that if commodity prices remain near or above current levels they intend to moderately increase capital spending for production services in early-to-mid-2004.

In addition, the Company announced that it has received or expects to receive commitments from certain members of its current bank group to provide a new four-year $175 million revolving credit facility to replace the Company's current $150 million revolver set to mature in July 2005. The new credit facility, which is expected to close in November, will feature a lower interest rate, an enhanced covenant package designed to accommodate the Company's growth strategy and an extended term. The Company intends to use this new facility to provide short-term working capital, letters of credit and flexibility to reduce/refinance higher cost debt, all at reduced interest rates relative to the current facility.

The Company completed the previously announced sale of its oil and natural gas properties during the September 2003 quarter. As stated in the Company's last conference call, these assets were not core to its production services focus. The Company received net cash proceeds of approximately $7.2 million after repaying the Company's volumetric production payment and related costs. As a result of the sale, the Company will treat its oil and natural gas production business as a discontinued operation for all periods and has recorded an after-tax charge to discontinued operations of approximately $7.4 million, or $0.06 per diluted share, during the September 2003 quarter.

Francis D. John, Chairman and CEO, stated, "While current activity levels have moderated, the Company is exceptionally well positioned and is in fact executing on its near-term and three-year stated objectives. During the quarter and year to date, our strong cash flow after capital expenditures, supported by our strong maintenance base of business, has allowed us to continue to reduce debt, expand our rental tool and international operations, as well as launch our technology initiatives. Specifically, earlier this month, we introduced our KeyView™ system. This system will allow Key to capture job site operating data that can create significant efficiency improvements for both Key and our customers as well as provide a safer work environment. Further, the system provides Key an opportunity to capture additional revenue. Thus far, we have commitments, or expressions of interest, for approximately 60 units and expect to have 250 units installed by the end of 2004."

Mr. John continued, We have seen significant strengthening in our international operations in Egypt and Argentina and are currently evaluating specific opportunities to expand our international presence. Discussions are ongoing in Russia, Mexico and South America that, if successful, could allow Key to deploy idle rigs and related assets in these markets, resulting in increased revenue and margin contribution from international operations. In addition, with our strong cash position, new bank facility and improved safety performance, we expect to see a substantial decrease in our fixed cost structure in 2004. We plan to retire the $97 million of 14% notes currently outstanding on January 14, 2004, resulting in approximately $14 million of reduced annual interest expense from today's run rate. In addition, we expect that at current activity levels, operating costs should decrease between $5 and $10 million annually as a result of reduced insurance and workers compensation costs as well as improved operating efficiencies anticipated from our technology initiatives and preventive maintenance programs.

Mr. John concluded, As we have consistently stated, Key is committed to achieving its three stated objectives over the next two to three years which are as follows: (1) reduce net debt to total capitalization to less than 25% through further debt reduction; (2) grow through our rental tool and international operations and through the introduction of technology; and (3) be in a position to implement a share repurchase and/or dividend program. Even if market conditions remain sluggish over the next several quarters, we are confident that we will meet these objectives.

RECONCILIATIONS OF NON-GAAP TO GAAP FINANCIAL MEASURES

In compliance with Regulation G, set forth below is a reconciliation of the non-GAAP financial measures presented in this Current Report on Form 8-K to their most directly comparable financial measures calculated in accordance with GAAP.

Adjusted EBITDA: Adjusted EBITDA is a non-GAAP financial measure that represents the Company's earnings before interest expense, taxes, depreciation, depletion and amortization, bad debt expense, (gains) losses on retirement of debt, foreign currency transaction (gains) losses, discontinued operations and cumulative effect for the period indicated. Management considers Adjusted EBITDA to be a measure of both performance and liquidity. In addition, management believes that Adjusted EBITDA is sometimes useful to compare the operating results of companies within an industry due to the fact that it eliminates certain financing decisions. However, Adjusted EBITDA should not be considered as an alternative to GAAP measures of performance, such as net income or cash flow. The term GAAP refers to generally accepted accounting principles.

RECONCILIATIONS OF NON-GAAP TO GAAP FINANCIAL MEASURES

Adjusted EBITDA Margin: Adjusted EBITDA Margin is a non-GAAP financial measure that represents the Company's earnings before interest expense, taxes, depreciation, depletion and amortization, bad debt expense, (gains) losses on retirement of debt, foreign currency transaction (gains) losses, discontinued operations and cumulative effect for the period indicated as a percentage of revenue. Management considers Adjusted EBITDA Margin to be a measure of both performance and liquidity.

RECONCILIATIONS OF NON-GAAP TO GAAP FINANCIAL MEASURES

Net Funded Debt to Total Capitalization: Net Funded Debt to Total Capitalization is a non-GAAP financial measure that represents total debt (including capital leases) less cash and cash equivalents over total capitalization, which consists of total debt (including capital leases) less cash and cash equivalents plus stockholders' equity. Management considers net funded debt to total capitalization to be a measure of liquidity and believes that it is a more useful measure than total debt to total capitalization since the cash on hand can be used to retire outstanding debt.
