IBERDROLA P3

MARKET REACTION P4

MESSAGE FROM STEPHEN DUNN P5

SPANISH REACTION P6

Main Headline

Offer transaction proceeds on schedule

Main Standfirst

In this latest Update, Philip Bowman provides a detailed overview of the progress of Iberdrola's Sharesave and ESOP schemes.

Main Text

Following the announcement of Iberdrola's offer, both companies are now engaged in preparing the offer before shareholders. After the initial activity around the announcement, it may appear strange that the market is quiet. However, as I outlined in the January edition of ScottishPower News, the transaction is on track pending the SEC and FERC approval of the transaction in the US, which is an important regulatory step.

We understand that as employees you are keen to know more about the treatment of the ESOP and Sharesave offer. It is planned to send detailed communication, explanation and instructions to you at the same time as the provision of information to the company's shareholders. We will try wherever possible to supplement this with further assistance in the form of management briefings, intranet updates, Q&A's and help-lines.

The Offer, once completed, will trigger certain provisions in the Company's share scheme rules. A key objective of ScottishPower and Iberdrola is to ensure that Sharesave and ESOP participants do not suffer any disadvantage by the change of control.

Main Text

When a participant validly exercises an option he or she will receive an aggregate payment of 412 shares - just as other shareholders will receive.

Sharesave

Participants in the Sharesave scheme will be able to continue their monthly savings contracts with the company and exercise their options during the six months following the completion of the transaction using their existing accounts at that time. Under the terms of the offer, ScottishPower and Iberdrola have agreed that they will provide compensation for any additional income tax liability that they incur as a result of early exercise of their options.

If a three or five year savings contract cannot be completed before the last date for exercise of the option, the participant will receive a cash payment equivalent to the value of the option at that time.

Edgar Filing: SCOTTISH POWER PLC - Form SC14D9C

months following completion), compensation will be paid for the resulting loss of profit, grossed how this will work using the value of an Iberdrola share prevailing at the time the transaction was completed. Please note that the value of an Iberdrola share changes on a daily basis:

Sharesave example

1 A participant entered into a five year savings contract in June 2006 and was granted an option to purchase shares at a price of £3.74 per share.

2 The participant continues to make monthly contributions for the six months after the transaction closes (assumed to be April 2007).

3 A participant exercising in October, 2007 (at the latest possible time) will have saved for 17 months of $17/60 \times 4,020$ shares = 1,139 shares.

4 The participant will also receive compensation calculated as follows...
(4,020 - 1,139 shares x (£7.77 - £3.74) i.e. 2,881 shares x £4.03 = £11,610.43*

*This sum will be grossed up for income tax purposes.

In summary, this participant exercising the SAYE option at the latest possible date will receive 17 months of ScottishPower shares which will no longer be listed, these shares will automatically be transferred to the participant. The participant will instead receive 412 pence and 0.1646 of an Iberdrola share for each ScottishPower share. The compensation for the 2,881 ScottishPower shares, which he or she was unable to buy due to early exercise at an earlier date (say, June 2007) he or she would acquire fewer ScottishPower shares than if he or she exercised in October 2007. ScottishPower shares that he or she was unable to buy due to early exercise would still be calculated as if they had been bought in October 2007 and the participant acquired the maximum number of shares that could have been bought.

ESOP

At around the time of the completion of the transaction, the ESOP will close to new entrants and existing members that ESOP members will effectively stop making contributions and the scheme will run as a closed scheme.

The terms of the offer will allow participants to exchange their ScottishPower Shares in the same way as if they were cash for the cash element that you are entitled to receive you may want to elect to receive loan notes instead of cash (interest bearing IOU under which Iberdrola promises to pay you the same amount as you would have received if you had elected down to the nearest pound) repayable on set dates in the future. Electing to receive loan notes instead of cash offers a favourable tax treatment that an ESOP provides to continue until the end of the usual holding period without incurring an additional tax liability. A tax charge will arise if you choose to receive cash and you will need to pay tax on the cash received.

Shareholder reaction to the Iberdrola Offer

Main Text

The market responded well to the Offer announcement, although it came as no real surprise because the Offer has been heavily trailed in the media in the previous weeks. The Offer has generally been viewed as a significant improvement on the Offer from E-ON last year. For example, analysts at Credit Suisse have highlighted the compelling value to ScottishPower shareholders. We expect holders to broadly support the deal".

In the days following the announcement, Philip Bowman, Simon Lowth and Peter Durman, the Investor Relations team, had conversations with all of our key shareholders. In addition, ScottishPower's brokers have been gauging Shareholders have been keen to understand the background to the Offer and the extent of any discussion with other parties.

They also wanted to understand why the Directors were recommending the Offer to shareholders.

Another theme that emerged was that holders have been impressed with the strong results and the growth in management has made in turning the business around. One investor said "it is good to see that management have really grown in confidence". Several investors made comments that they are keen to see the SPP involved in the combined entity.

Many shareholders have been keen to understand the next steps in the Offer timetable. In particular, they follow the regulatory approvals process very closely to give themselves comfort that everything is going well. The regulatory filings, the next step in the process is the preparation of the various documents that will be sent to shareholders. The Investor Relations team is working to support the preparation of these documents and the transaction, including responding to questions from investors.

The ScottishPower share price has reacted well to the news flow about the Offer. On the day that the Offer was announced, the share price rose by almost 9%. It then rose in the following days to a range of around 738p to 760p. The volume of shares traded on a daily basis has also increased.

spikes on both announcement days. Over 122 million shares were traded on the day of the Offer and compares with a normal daily average of around 12 million. In contrast, Iberdrola's share price reflects concerns from its shareholders over the Offer for ScottishPower. Iberdrola's share price ACS, the Spanish-based construction firm, bought 6.3% of Iberdrola's share capital.

Since the Offer announcement, ScottishPower's share price is tending to track in line with Iberdrola that almost 50% of the Offer consideration is in new Iberdrola shares. At constant exchange rates Iberdrola's share price represents a change of around 11 pence in the value of the Offer for Scot

Dealing with change

Main Text
Merger Offers, like the one facing ScottishPower, create great uncertainty. This is because, based on bidding companies are not able to discuss detailed plans regarding the future of the business with until the information has been released to shareholders. This means that many of our questions can't be answered those revolving around the most crucial questions for all: what's going to happen to my role and simply, we all want to be in control of the situation. We need to be able to plan our personal and professional life can't, it is much harder to concentrate on what would normally be day-to-day activities.

So, what actions can you take to stay focussed?

Proactive Communications
The first step is to communicate, communicate and communicate. This is a two-way street. Absorb it throughout the company (either through our dedicated Intranet site or the regular Update newsletter) the media and also make sure that you ask your management team any questions and discuss your concerns. If answered, the better you will feel. Understand that there will be many questions that can't be answered but will be as soon as there is something concrete to share. One example of this is the information included in this issue. We have been inundated with questions relating to the schemes. However, we will not until we are in a position to communicate with all shareholders. In the meantime we all need to be aware of the reaction to the situation, try to avoid speculating, because ultimately, you won't know the facts until they are officially, or you actually hear them from the management team.

Our Vision and Goals remain unchanged
Our vision to become the UK's best integrated energy supplier and a world leader in renewables, remains the same. In these situations, we forget to recognise the good work of others and of ourselves. Celebrating even the smallest achievements together and helps to give purpose and context to time spent at work during a challenging period. It gives everyone an opportunity to concentrate on business as usual. If the Offer Period has affected the business, it is the opportunity to develop your skills and help out in another area of the business that might be affected by business-critical activity.
Our commitment towards Operational Excellence remains unchanged as we focus on our respective business targets and objectives we have been set.

Media views Iberdrola in a positive light

Main Text

The Scottish press widely covered the visit of Iberdrola CEO, Ignacio Sanchez Galan, to Glasgow in Scotland. Jack McConnell, said he'd received personal assurances that ScottishPower's headquarters would remain in Glasgow.

The Scottish Daily Express quoted the First Minister, "Most importantly for the longer term they want to see us in Scotland to bid for and to secure further investment in Scotland in the energy industry."

The Herald quoted continued SNP caution but said SNP Deputy Leader, Nicola Sturgeon had "received personal assurances of retention of ScottishPower's identity and a commitment to renewable energy."

The Scotsman focused on Mr Galan's record at Iberdrola, where share values have doubled in the five years since he joined. The growth of Iberdrola has been due to investments abroad - largely in windfarms and investment in a £1.5 billion investment between 2007 and 2009."

The Scotsman added "Mr Galan, who joined the company in 2001 from Vodafone's Spanish operation as CEO, has won the Award of the Year three years in a row."

The Scotsman also quoted Mr Galan on the question of Spanish tax incentives for the deal, which the UK Competition Commission to investigate before the transaction is concluded. Mr Galan said "Different countries have different taxes, there is nothing new in that."

The Spanish press was virtually unanimous in its support for the merger which it said would push the company well as allowing further expansion in Spain through the more liberal EU regulatory regime. El Pais daily, said: "It is interesting that a Spanish company is pushing through an international deal that pits it against the major players of Germany, France and Italy."

El Correo, based in Iberdrola's home city of Bilbao, also praised the proposed merger and reported that it had received from the Basque National Party (PNV). "The PNV has interceded in support of Iberdrola with the SNP praising the company and its likely approach to matters of national identity and labour relations."
