CVS Health Acquires Aetna

Talking Points

Background

CVS Health will acquire Aetna, according to a definitive agreement announced December 3, 2017, for an equity value of $69 billion, including the assumption of Aetna debt. The transaction was unanimously approved by the Boards of Directors of both companies.

This compelling strategic combination will unlock meaningful value for patients, payors, providers and shareholders. For health care stakeholders, we will deliver high-touch connectivity to consumers and improve the quality of care, while driving efficiencies and lowering the cost of care. For shareholders, not only does this transaction make sense strategically, but it also makes sense financially.

CVS and Aetna have been close partners for most of the past decade, since we entered into a strategic agreement to provide pharmacy benefits to Aetna members. We shared a vision of the critical role that pharmacy care plays in delivering quality outcomes with lower overall health care costs. As partners, we have worked diligently together to deliver on those goals to improve care for Aetna members, while providing competitive pharmacy pricing to allow Aetna to continue to expand its book of business. And although we have taken steps to deepen our relationship, we both recognize that to truly impact patient health and lower costs, more needs to be done.

Through this acquisition, CVS Health will add a health plan to the suite of offerings that now include CVS Pharmacy, CVS Caremark (PBM), CVS Specialty, CVS MinuteClinic, Omnicare (long-term care pharmacy), and Coram (infusion services).

Talking Points

We are excited about the opportunities this new company represents for our customers and the entire healthcare industry.

We understand that clients will have questions about this transaction and how it will impact them going forward. We stand ready to work through any questions our clients have throughout this process, but wanted to address a few potential concerns upfront:
