Moody's upgrades foreign currency risk rating of Petrobras's debt to A3

Rio de Janeiro, June 21, 2011 – Petróleo Brasileiro S.A. – Petrobras informs that today the risk rating agency Moody's Investor Services (Moody's) announced the upgrade of Petrobras's foreign currency debt rating from Baa1 to A3, as well as the debt of its subsidiaries backed by Petrobras.

The Agency views the upgrade as a result of the recent elevation of the rating of the Brazilian foreign currency long-term sovereign debt, which rose from Baa3 to Baa2. According to Moody's, Petrobras's foreign currency rating assessment remains positioned two levels above the assessment of the Brazilian sovereign risk.

With this upgrade, Petrobras's foreign currency debt risk reached the same level of the domestic currency rating, global scale, which remained stable. Moody's extends this risk assessment to all global debt securities issued by Petrobras International Financial Company (Pifco), a wholly subsidiary of Petrobras, which, from here on, are also evaluated as A3.

The upgrade should contribute to an increase in Petrobras's investor base and to a better funding condition. Petrobras reasserts its commitment to maintain its capital structure within levels compatible with an investment grade.
