3.2.3 Subsidies

Since 2007, the international prices of crude oil have been soaring up. Domestic prices of oil products have been kept under tight control, and have even turned out lower than the prices of crude oil. Some local refineries have experienced insufficient operation and even discontinued their production work. Besides, due to the increased consumption of diesel oil in wintertime, the oil products markets in some regions have began to see a short supply scene. In order to ensure the smooth operations of the finished oil products market, the Company has taken multiple measures to enhance its production of oil products, purchased oil products from local refineries at high prices, in an effort to ensure its supply of oil products to the domestic market. These measures have worked out salient results, but have also given rise to a relatively big loss in the refining segment of the Company. In March 2008, the Company received subsidies in the amount of RMB 12.3 billion; among others, RMB 4.9 billion was incorporated into the subsidy income of 2007, and RMB 7.4 billion was incorporated into the subsidy income of the first quarter of 2008.

It is intended to use a raised fund of RMB 10 billion yuan to adjust the Company's current debt structure; and the remaining funds raised are intended to be used to replenish the Company's working capital and improve the Company's funding condition.
