FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

TURKCELL PROVIDES UPDATE ON DISPUTE WITH TURK TELEKOM ON INTERCONNECTION FEE STRUCTURE

Istanbul, Turkey: December 4, 2003--Turkcell (NYSE:TKC, ISE: TCELL), the leading provider of mobile communications services in Turkey, today announced a new development regarding the interconnection fee dispute between Turk Telekom and Turkcell.

In November 2000, Turk Telekom demanded that Turkcell share all interconnection fees equally with Turk Telekom going forward and retroactively from April 1998 as a result of the favorable decision acquired by the Turkish Electrical Engineer's Society ("EES") in their lawsuit against Turk Telekom filed with the Ankara Ninth Administrative Court in October 2000. In that lawsuit, the EES claimed that the interconnection fee regime set out in the Interconnection Agreement between Turkcell and Turk Telekom violated public policy. Although Turkcell was not a party to this lawsuit, the Ankara Ninth Administrative Court annulled the interconnection fee structure set out in the Interconnection Agreement between Turkcell and Turk Telekom. However, in July 2003, Turkcell obtained a court decision from the Ankara Seventh Commercial Court, which stated that Turk Telekom should continue to comply with the original interconnection agreement until a new contract was reached. Furthermore, following Turk Telekom's demand for opinions concerning the Ankara Ninth Administrative Court's decision regarding revenue distribution, both the Ankara Ninth Administrative Court and the Court of Cassation issued decrees implying that the Ankara Ninth Administrative Court's prior verdict did not involve equal interconnection fee sharing and stated that the conflict should be resolved by a mutual agreement by the parties.

On December 3, 2003, Turk Telekom informed Turkcell that it has stopped making its monthly interconnection fee payments in accordance with the recently obtained injunction from the Ankara First Commercial Court. Previously, the Ankara First Commercial Court twice rejected Turk Telekom's similar claims. Accordingly, Turk Telekom did not make the interconnection fee payment for October 2003 that is scheduled for November 30, 2003, amounting to TL35.9 trillion (approximately US$24.7mn as of today). The lawsuit overseen in the Ankara First Commercial Court involves the interconnection fee payments applicable for the period of September 2001 to August 2002, amounting to TL490 trillion (approximately US$355.9 mn as of September 30, 2003).

Considering the new interconnection agreement between Turk Telekom and Turkcell, which does not entail equal sharing of interconnection fees, the court decision of the Ankara Seventh Commercial Court and opinions of the Court of Cassation and the Ankara Ninth Administrative Court, Turkcell believes that the recent injunction decision is unfair and inconsistent with the prior court decisions. Additionally, Turkcell believes that the non-payment conflicts created by Turk Telekom are not reasonable and against the principles of the new interconnection agreement signed between the parties.

The case regarding the essence of this dispute continues in the Ankara Seventh Commercial Court.
