The following communication was made available on Time Warner Cable Inc. websites on April 11, 2014:

The Senate Judiciary Committee held a public hearing on the merger of Comcast and Time Warner Cable on Wednesday, April 9, 2014. Time Warner Cable Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer Artie Minson testified before the Committee on the merger and its impact on consumers.

Here is the full text of Minson's statement:

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Committee, thank you for the opportunity to speak with you today. My name is Arthur Minson, and I am Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Time Warner Cable. I am pleased to be here to discuss the proposed transaction between Comcast and Time Warner Cable.

Let me start by saying that I share David's view that the combination of our two companies will bring substantial benefits to our customers, our employees, and the local communities we serve.

Cable companies operate in an incredibly dynamic marketplace and we face robust competition from a wide range of sophisticated national and global powerhouses.

We compete to develop the most innovative products and services, to attract and retain both customers and employees and to access funding for our ongoing operating and capital investments. As a result, we must adapt in order to succeed.

As Chief Financial Officer, one of my responsibilities is overseeing our allocation of capital, both human capital as well as investments in our products, services and physical infrastructure. We have invested billions in capital expenditures and made significant strides in developing and offering innovative new products and services for our customers.

But when the opportunity to combine with Comcast arose, we knew it would be a game-changer. By joining our complementary technological strengths, and creating greater scale, the transaction will allow the combined company to bring next generation video, broadband and voice services to customers faster than either company could do on its own.

Let me provide some examples of the benefits our customers will see as a result of this transaction. Time Warner Cable recently announced plans to invest billions of dollars over the next three years to upgrade our network. Comcast has already completed similar upgrades to its network. As a combined company, our subscribers will capitalize on Comcast's experience to accelerate the roll out of these consumer benefits across the entire Time Warner Cable footprint.

The transaction will also benefit the business market. Greater scale will enable the combined company to offer more advanced services to our existing small- and medium-sized business customers and also offer a competitive alternative to larger businesses in the regional and national marketplace. Given our limited geographic footprint, we have been hindered in our ability to compete with national telecom providers in serving multi-regional and national enterprise customers.

After the transaction, the greater coverage of the combined company will encompass significantly more multi-regional business locations, allowing us to compete more aggressively and provide better alternatives for businesses than either Time Warner Cable or Comcast could accomplish alone.

Let me conclude by saying that we believe this transaction will create a world-class provider of video, broadband, and voice products and services, resulting in greater competition and consumer choice in this already robust marketplace. Thank you for the opportunity to appear before you today. I look forward to answering your questions.
