Item 2.02. Results of Operations and Financial Condition.

On February 19, 2009, Wright Medical Group, Inc. issued a press release announcing its consolidated financial results for the quarter and the year ended December 31, 2008. A copy of the press release is furnished as Exhibit 99 to this report.

The attached press release includes the following non-GAAP measures: operating income, as adjusted; net income, as adjusted; net income, as adjusted, per diluted share; and effective tax rate, as adjusted.

These non-GAAP measures are not in accordance with, or an alternative for, generally accepted accounting principles and may be different from non-GAAP measures used by other companies. In addition, these non-GAAP measures are not based on any comprehensive set of accounting rules or principles. We believe that non-GAAP measures have limitations in that they do not reflect all of the amounts associated with our results of operations as determined in accordance with GAAP and that these measures should only be used to evaluate our results of operations in conjunction with the corresponding GAAP measures.

For our internal budgeting and resource allocation process, our management uses financial information that does not include (a) restructuring charges, (b) non-cash stock-based compensation expenses, (c) non-cash inventory step-up amortization, (d) costs associated with U.S. government inquiries, (e) charges associated with unfavorable legal disputes, (f) acquired in-process research and development charges, (g) the income tax effects of the foregoing, and (h) a tax provision to record a valuation allowance for French net operating losses (NOL s). We use these non-GAAP financial measures in making operating decisions because we believe the measures provide meaningful supplemental information regarding our core operational performance and give us a better understanding of how we should invest in research and development activities and how we should allocate resources to both ongoing and prospective business initiatives. We use these measures to help make budgeting and spending decisions, for example, as between product development expenses and research and development, sales and marketing and general and administrative expenses. Additionally, management is evaluated on the basis of these non-GAAP financial measures when determining achievement of their incentive performance compensation targets. Further, these non-GAAP financial measures facilitate management's internal comparisons to both our historical operating results and to our competitors' operating results.

As described above, we exclude the following items from one or more of our non-GAAP measures:

Restructuring charges. We exclude restructuring charges associated with the closure of our Toulon, France operations from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that it allows for period-over-period comparability.

Non-cash stock-based compensation expense. We exclude stock-based compensation expenses from our non-GAAP measures primarily because they are non-cash expenses. We believe that it is useful to investors to understand the application of SFAS 123R and its impact on our operational performance, liquidity, and our ability to invest in R&D and fund acquisitions and capital expenditures. While stock-based compensation expense calculated in accordance with SFAS 123R constitutes an ongoing and recurring expense, such expense is excluded from our non-GAAP results because it is not an expense that requires cash settlement and is not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that it allows for greater transparency to certain line items in our financial statements. In addition, excluding this item from our non-GAAP results facilitates comparisons to our competitors' operating results.

Non-cash inventory step-up amortization. We exclude inventory step-up amortization associated with our recent acquisitions from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. Additionally, because these are non-cash expenses, they do not impact our operational performance, liquidity, or our ability to invest in R&D and fund acquisitions and capital expenditures. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that it allows for period-over-period comparability.

Costs associated with the U.S. governmental inquiries. During 2008, we recognized costs associated with the ongoing U.S. governmental inquiries. Those costs resulted primarily from legal fees incurred as we respond to these inquiries. We excluded those costs from our non-GAAP results because such costs are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that these measures are useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Charges associated with unfavorable legal disputes. During the second quarter of 2008 and the fourth quarter of 2007, we recognized charges associated with legal disputes with two separate former consultants. Those charges resulted from an appellate court ruling and an arbitration ruling, both of which were significant and not part of our on-going business. We excluded those costs from our non-GAAP results because such costs are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that these measures are useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Acquired in-process research and development charges. During the second quarter of 2008, we recognized non-cash charges associated with acquired in-process research and development (IPRD) related to our acquisition of Inbone Technologies, Inc. IPRD relates to projects in process as of the acquisition date that have not reached technological feasibility and are immediately expensed. We excluded those costs from our non-GAAP results, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. Additionally, because these are non-cash expenses, they do not impact our operational performance, liquidity, or our ability to invest in R&D and fund acquisitions and capital expenditures. We further believe that these measures are useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Income tax effects of the foregoing. This amount is used to present each of the amounts described above on an after-tax basis consistent with the presentation of net income, as adjusted.

Valuation allowance for French NOLs. We have excluded from our non-GAAP results the non-cash income tax provision to record a valuation allowance against deferred tax assets associated with French NOLs, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. Additionally, because these are non-cash expenses, they do not impact our operational performance, liquidity, or our ability to invest in R&D and fund acquisitions and capital expenditures. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that it allows for period-over-period comparability.

We believe that non-GAAP measures have limitations in that they do not reflect all of the amounts associated with our financial results as determined in accordance with GAAP and that these measures should only be used to evaluate our financial results in conjunction with the corresponding GAAP measures, and that is why we qualify the use of non-GAAP financial information in a statement when non-GAAP information is presented.

We further believe that where the adjustments used in calculating net income, as adjusted, and net income, as adjusted, per diluted share are based on specific, identified amounts that impact different line items in the Consolidated Statements of Operations (including operating income and net income), that it is useful to investors to understand how these specific line items in the Consolidated Statements of Operations are affected by these adjustments for the following reasons:

Operating income. Excluding non-cash stock-based compensation expense, acquired IPRD, and inventory step-up amortization from the calculation of operating income assists investors in evaluating period-over-period changes without giving effect to these charges which are non-cash in nature, in order to evaluate the results of the underlying operating activities for the periods presented. Excluding restructuring charges, the costs associated with the U.S. governmental inquiries, and the charges associated with the unfavorable legal disputes from the calculation of operating income assists investors in evaluating period-over-period changes in this measure without giving effect to transactions which do not relate to the performance of our ongoing operations.

Net Income. Excluding non-cash stock-based compensation expense, acquired IPRD, inventory step-up amortization, and the valuation allowance for French NOL s from the calculation of net income assists investors in evaluating period-over-period changes without giving effect to these charges which are non-cash in nature, in order to evaluate the results of the underlying operating activities for the periods presented. Excluding restructuring charges, the costs associated with the U.S. governmental inquiries, and the charges associated with the unfavorable legal disputes from the calculation of net income assists investors in evaluating period-over-period changes in this measure without giving effect to transactions which do not relate to the performance of our ongoing operations.

Effective Tax Rate. Excluding the income tax effect of the non-GAAP, pre-tax adjustments and the valuation allowance for French NOL s from the provision for income taxes assists investors in understanding the tax provision associated with those adjustments and our effective tax rate related to our ongoing operations.
