Item 2. Acquisition or Disposition of Assets

The Company has closed on the Definitive Agreement to acquire 51% of a SMS provider in China, Beijing Quicknet Telecommunications Corp. Ltd. (Beijing Quicknet), from non-affiliates.

Xin Net Corp. announced in February 2004 that it had entered into an acquisition agreement with the shareholders of QuickNet Telecommunication Corp. ("QuickNet"), an enterprise mobile services provider based in Beijing, China.

Under the terms of the acquisition, Xin Net Corp. has issued 6,120,000 shares at a deemed price of US$0.50 per share to the shareholders of QuickNet, in exchange for 49% of the issued and outstanding shares of QuickNet. In addition, Xin Net entered into an Agreement with the owners of 2% of Beijing QuickNet who manage and run Beijing QuickNet to acquire their shares. Xin Net Corp. also retains an option to acquire the remaining 49% of the QuickNet shares for US$4 million in cash and/or shares within the first year after the closing date of the acquisition, or for US$5 million in cash and/or shares within the second year after the closing date of the acquisition.

QuickNet is one of the first companies to focus on mobile solutions for businesses in China. QuickNet's strategy of targeting corporate users is aimed at achieving a higher percentage of recurring revenue and better margins.

Management's view is that being an "early bird" provider of mobile services to enterprises offers more growth potential than if QuickNet targeted the highly competitive individual consumer segment.

QuickNet's first application "Mobile marketing" is the use of the mobile medium as a communications and entertainment channel between a brand and an end-user. Mobile marketing is a enabling spontaneous, direct, interactive, and/or targeted communications, any time, any place to a mobile device user. Mobile marketing can be used in a variety of ways:

- o For customer acquisition
- o For customer retention
- o For loyalty building
- o As a sales promotion tool
- o To support product launches
- o To raise brand awareness
- o For internal communications
- o As a redemption/coupon tool
- o For direct marketing
- o As an effective business to business communications vehicle
- o As an additional revenue stream
- o To be able to offer time/location specific offers
- o As a channel for delivering ring tones and logos

China has many millions of mobile phone users. Up to one billion Short Messages are sent every day.

The Company may conduct R&D on various mobile applications for enterprises in China and intends to expand revenue and client base by several sales approaches which might include recruiting sales agents, setting up branches in major cities, co-marketing with major carriers, increased in-house sales force, marketing campaigns nationwide, and co-branding with industry leaders to more corporate clients in various industries.

Pro Forma Financial Information

Introductory paragraph:

The following pro forma financial results shows the historical financial statements of Xin Net Corp. ("Xin Net") and Beijing Quicknet Telecommunication Corporation ("Quicknet") for the three months ended March 31, 2004, adjusted to assume that the acquisition of Quicknet by Xin Net has been completed at the beginning of the period.

By an agreement dated February 20, 2004, Xin Net and Quicknet entered into an acquisition agreement. Xin Net agreed to acquire 49% equity interest in Quicknet through issuance of 6,120,000 shares at a deemed price of $0.50 per share. Xin Net also entered into agreement with the owners of 2% equity interest in Quicknet who manage and run Quicknet to acquire their shares at a nominal value. Through this arrangement, Xin Net has an effective control of 51% equity interest in Quicknet. Xin Net also has the option to acquire the remaining 49% equity interest in Quicknet shares for $4 million in cash and/or shares within the first year after closing date of the acquisition, or for $5 million in cash and/or shares within the second year after the closing of the acquisition.
