Item 2.02 Results of Operations and Financial Condition.

J. C. Penney Company, Inc. issued a news release on November 15, 2005, announcing its third quarter results of operations and financial condition. This information is attached as Exhibit 99.1.

The news release referred to above contains the non-GAAP financial measure of free cash flow. Although it is not a generally accepted accounting principle (GAAP) measure, it is derived from components of the Company's consolidated GAAP cash flow statement. Free cash flow from continuing operations is defined as cash provided by operating activities less dividends and capital expenditures, net of proceeds from the sale of assets.

Although free cash flow is a non-GAAP financial measure, management believes it is important in evaluating the Company's financial performance and measuring the ability to generate cash without incurring additional external financing. Positive free cash flow generated by a company indicates the amount of cash available for reinvestment in the business, or cash that can be returned to investors through increased dividends, stock repurchase programs, debt retirements, or a combination of these. Conversely, negative free cash flow indicates the amount of cash that must be raised from investors through new debt or equity issues, reduction in available cash balances or a combination of these. Based on the seasonality of the Company's business, cumulative free cash flow generally runs negative for the first nine months of the year and turns positive in the fourth quarter. Free cash flow should be considered in addition to, rather than as a substitute for, cash provided by operating activities. The Company's calculation of free cash flow may differ from that used by other companies and therefore comparability may be limited.

SIGNATURES

Pursuant to the requirements of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, the registrant has duly caused this report to be signed on its behalf by the undersigned hereunto duly authorized.

JCPENNEY REPORTS THIRD QUARTER EARNINGS OF $0.94 PER SHARE

Income From Continuing Operations Increases 58 Percent

Management Raises Fourth Quarter Earnings Guidance to $1.58 Per Share

PLANO, Texas, November 15, 2005 -- J. C. Penney Company, Inc. (NYSE: JCP) third quarter earnings from continuing operations rose to $0.94 per share from $0.50 per share in last year's third quarter. On a dollar basis, income from continuing operations increased 58 percent, to $234 million from $148 million last year. Earnings per share increased primarily as a result of improved operating performance, lower interest expense and the impact of the company's ongoing common stock buyback program, which is now substantially complete.

Myron E. (Mike) Ullman, III, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer said, "We are pleased with our operating performance during the course of 2005, especially in the third quarter, which was a very challenging retail environment. As we enter the fourth quarter, we are well positioned for the holiday selling season. While there are issues impacting the consumer, we know we have a strong and exciting selection of national and private brand merchandise that is supported by compelling and creative marketing programs."

Ullman added, "Customers are reacting positively to changes that we are making to our merchandise, marketing and sales environment, and the performance of our new stores continues to exceed plan. Looking ahead, we are focused on executing our long-range plan and believe that JCPenney is in a favorable position to benefit from industry consolidation. In addition, our financial condition continues to be very strong and provides the flexibility to capitalize on future opportunities."

Operating Results

During the third quarter, comparable department store sales increased 2.5 percent on top of a 2.6 percent increase in last year's period. Sales were positive across the majority of merchandise divisions, and from a regional perspective, the strongest performance continued to be realized from the southeastern and western regions of the country. During the quarter, Direct (catalog/Internet) sales declined 0.9 percent, compared to a 3.6 percent increase last year. Sales for jcpenny.com increased more than 25 percent in the third quarter on top of a 30 percent increase last year.

Gross margin improved by 110 basis points to 41.8 percent of sales, reflecting improvements in inventory management, seasonal transition and overall flow of merchandise, as well as continued strength in the performance of the company's private brand merchandise. SG&A expense dollars increased with the higher sales volume, and were flat as a percent of sales. SG&A expenses in the third quarter included the previously disclosed one-time credit of approximately $13 million related to the favorable resolution of the Visa Check/MasterMoney Antitrust litigation settlement, which was essentially offset by hurricane related costs.

Operating profit was $401 million, or 8.9 percent of sales, compared with $342 million, or 7.8 percent of sales last year. This represents an increase of 17 percent, or 110 basis points as a percent of sales.

Other Charges and Credits

Net interest expense was $41 million in the third quarter, with interest income benefiting principally from higher short-term interest rates on cash balances. The effective income tax rate for continuing operations was 36 percent, in line with previous guidance.

Financial Condition

As of October 29, 2005, the company had cash investments of $2.0 billion and long-term debt totaled $3.5 billion. Free cash flow is trending higher than recent guidance, principally as a result of improved operating performance. As a result, the company currently expects to generate at least $300 million of free cash flow for the fiscal year.

Capital Structure Repositioning

During the third quarter, the company substantially completed its common stock repurchase program, repurchasing 23.8 million shares of its common stock in open market transactions. In total, the company has repurchased approximately 44 million shares in fiscal 2005 for about $2.2 billion. Since initiating the program in August 2004, the company has repurchased approximately 94 million shares of common stock for about $4.1 billion.

Earnings Guidance

The company currently expects to generate fourth quarter earnings from continuing operations of approximately $1.58 per share. This would result in full year earnings from continuing operations of approximately $3.51 per share, an increase of more than 50 percent from the $2.20 per share earned in 2004, with operating profit exceeding 8 percent of sales.

This guidance reflects low single-digit increases for both comparable department store and Direct (catalog/Internet) sales coupled with improved gross margin and SG&A expense ratios compared with fourth quarter last year. In addition, the company expects net interest expense to be about $42 million for the fourth quarter, based on the current interest rate environment. Average diluted share counts for EPS calculations are expected to be approximately 235 million shares for the fourth quarter and 255 million shares for the full year.
