WHO WE ARE

Bancorp Rhode Island, Inc. is the holding company for Bank Rhode Island, a commercial bank chartered as a financial institution in the State of Rhode Island and headquartered in Providence. The Bank was formed in March 1996 as a result of the acquisition of 12 branches divested by Fleet Financial Group as part of the Fleet/Shawmut merger. The Bank became our wholly-owned subsidiary upon completion of our reorganization into a holding company on September 1, 2000. As of December 31, 2004, we had total assets of $1.2 billion, total deposits of $880.7 million and total shareholders' equity of $78.9 million.

We provide a community banking alternative in the greater Providence area, where we currently operate 14 branches in Rhode Island's three most populous counties. We augment our branch network through online banking services and automatic teller machines (ATMs), both owned and leased, located throughout the state.

The Bank is the fifth largest bank in Rhode Island, based on total deposits as of June 30, 2004 (excluding one bank that draws its deposits primarily from the internet), and the only mid-sized commercially focused bank headquartered in Providence, the state's capital. We offer a wide variety of commercial real estate, business, residential and consumer loans, deposit products, nondeposit investment products, cash management and online banking services and other products and services designed to meet the financial needs of individuals and small- to mid-sized businesses.

We have a cohesive, experienced and locally-focused management team, many of whom have been with the Bank since inception, who foster an energetic and entrepreneurial culture. While we regularly promote from within, we have not hesitated to recruit senior executive talent to augment our management capabilities as we grow and our business becomes more complex. We have a diverse board of directors with strong personal and business ties to our community, which strengthens our ability to cultivate relationships with local businesses and individuals.

Our Growth and Profitability

Edgar Filing: BANCORP RHODE ISLAND INC - Form 424B4

Our business has experienced significant growth. Since inception we have concentrated our asset generation efforts on commercial and consumer loans, allowing our residential mortgage loan portfolio to decline as a percentage of loans. Our deposit generation efforts have focused on relationship-based core deposit accounts, checking and savings. Since December 31, 2000, our total assets have grown from $739.4 million to over $1.2 billion, our total loans have increased from $518.8 million to $886.3 million, and our total deposits have increased from $631.6 million to $880.7 million. During the same five-year period, our net income has grown from $4.4 million to $8.6 million and our diluted earnings per share have grown from $1.14 to $2.04. We had positive growth in net income and earnings per share in all years during this period except 2003, a year in which we invested heavily in our infrastructure. Through this five-year span, our return on average assets and return on average equity ranged from 0.69% to 0.83% and 10.45% to 12.37%, respectively.

Table of Contents

For the year ended December 31, 2004, our growth and profitability were as follows:

Total assets increased 13.3%, from $1.09 billion to $1.24 billion;

Commercial loans increased 21.2%, from $332.3 million to $402.8 million; and

Consumer loans increased 44.6%, from $115.8 million to $167.4 million.

Deposits increased 8.6%, from $811.3 million to $880.7 million.

Net income increased 19.4%, from $7.2 million in 2003 to $8.6 million in 2004.

Diluted earnings per share increased 15.3%, from $1.77 in 2003 to $2.04 in 2004.

Return on average assets increased from 0.69% in 2003 to 0.74% in 2004.

Return on average equity increased from 10.45% in 2003 to 11.53% in 2004.

Our Market Area

Greater Providence is a densely populated urban area. Based upon information provided by Claritas, Providence is the second most populous city in New England, after Boston. It ranks second in the rate of population growth, both since 2000 and projected over the next five years, relative to the ten largest cities in New England. Additionally, Rhode Island's employment growth rate was the highest of the New England states between August 2003 and August 2004 according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Like Boston, Providence boasts a number of institutions of higher learning. The City is home to Brown University, Rhode Island School of Design, Johnson & Wales University and Providence College. Additionally, a number of hospitals and other health care providers are headquartered in the Providence area, as are state and other governmental offices. These sectors, as well as the local national airport, T.F. Green, which was significantly expanded in 1995, are key drivers of the state's economy.

The profile of the state's businesses is decidedly small business-oriented. According to data furnished by the Rhode Island Department of Labor and Training (RIDLT), more than 95% of Rhode Island's businesses have fewer than 50 employees. Since 1992, Rhode Island has experienced significant growth in the service, finance, insurance and real estate sectors, offsetting a substantial loss of manufacturing jobs and reflecting a dramatic realignment of what was once primarily a manufacturing based economy. While this growth is indicative of national trends, Rhode Island's shift to these sectors has been significantly greater than the nation's. Additionally, the RIDLT projects that Rhode Island's growth rate in the service and finance sectors will surpass the nation's growth rate in such sectors over the next five to seven years.

The City of Providence itself is enjoying an urban renaissance. It has preserved its architecturally distinctive flavor and enjoys numerous restaurants, theaters and other cultural venues, has a strong arts community and offers easy access to numerous recreational amenities. In recent years, both the Governor of Rhode Island and Mayor of Providence were elected on reform platforms and have taken steps to restore a sense of confidence and integrity to state and local government.

Thirteen of our fourteen branches are located in Providence and Kent Counties, the two most populous counties in Rhode Island. These counties contain 75% of the state's population, 72% of its businesses and 79% of its jobs. The six largest cities in the state are located in these two counties, and we have branches in five of these six cities. We recently expanded into Washington County, the third most populous county in the state, with the successful opening of our North Kingstown branch. In the nine months since opening, the branch has surpassed our expectations by garnering over $25 million in deposits.

The Rhode Island banking market is dominated by three large banks, one national and two regional. Their combined market share in Providence and Kent Counties represents approximately 84% of the deposits (excluding the internet-based bank), reflecting an exceptionally high degree of market concentration. The smallest of these institutions has total assets in excess of $56 billion. We have just under 6% of the deposits in Providence and Kent Counties and the remainder is scattered among a dozen other institutions. None of these other institutions has a branch footprint similar to ours in Providence and Kent Counties. As a result, we regard the three large banks in our area as our primary competition.

Table of Contents

The Rhode Island market has experienced slow to moderate economic growth over the past decade. Accordingly, our future growth depends largely on our ability to continue to attract business away from these large banks by continuing to increase our penetration in existing markets and successfully expanding in new markets. We believe we will enjoy continued success in winning business by offering a combination of competitive pricing for our services, quick decision making processes and a high level of personalized customer service to commercial, small business and other customers in the area who are seeking an alternative to the larger financial institutions.

Our Business Strategy

Our core strategy is to sufficiently differentiate ourselves from the large banks so as to attract business away from them. We seek to accomplish this through superior, relationship-based personal service, responsiveness, and our ability to set policies and procedures, as well as make decisions, locally. We believe we have a sophisticated commercial lending group and a solid footprint of branches which enable us to compete against the larger banks.

We believe we are well positioned to capitalize on the opportunities our marketplace, expertise and customer base afford us. Three primary opportunities are:

The consolidation of the banking industry in Rhode Island and our relatively small market share provides the opportunity for us to grow by continuing to increase our market penetration and expanding our market presence.

The prevalence of small businesses, our target customers, supports our focus on commercial lending as our primary business driver. We believe that service-oriented, relationship banking is meaningful to many businesses, and that our branch footprint has sufficient touch-points to make us accessible to these businesses.

Our customer relationships and core competencies provide opportunities for cross selling products to our existing customers and for developing new business lines that utilize our knowledge base.

Specifically, we plan to focus on the following specific operating and growth strategies:

Providing Superior, Relationship-Based Customer Service. We have distinguished ourselves from the larger institutions in our region by providing high touch, individualized, responsive, quality service. To provide this personalized service, we strive to recruit and train highly motivated employees who are able to make decisions and respond quickly to customers' needs. We emphasize to our employees the importance of delivering a consistent and superior level of service and building further relationships with our customers. We believe our consistent, customer-focused approach across our entire organization provides us with a competitive advantage over the larger banks in our market.

Expanding Our Commercial Banking Relationships. Building on our past success in commercial lending, we seek to position ourselves as the bank for business in our market. Our strategy revolves around providing ready access to a knowledgeable, experienced commercial lending officer with a relationship orientation, able to respond to a broad range of business needs on a customized basis. Our lenders provide continuity and consistency in approach as well as value-added advice. We believe our ability to know our commercial customers, to provide a significant level of personal contact and to respond to their lending and banking needs on a more individualized basis will enable us to continue to attract relationship-oriented customers dissatisfied with the service and responsiveness of our larger competitors.

Growing Our Core Deposits. We stress growing the Bank's core deposit base, namely checking and savings deposits. These deposits provide both a low cost source of funds for our lending operations and a potential source of fee income. These accounts, which generally represent a customer's primary banking relationship, also present opportunities for cross-selling other products. We rely mainly on quality customer service and diversified products, as well as competitive pricing policies and advertising, to attract and retain these deposits.

Diversifying Our Products and Services and Increasing Noninterest Income. Over the years we have introduced new products and services in order to more fully service our customers as well as to broaden our sources of noninterest income. Such services and products include cash management and a nondeposit investment program which offers customers a variety of mutual funds and annuities. We have also expanded our consumer loan generation (largely home equity lines of credit and home equity term loans) through marketing programs with other local organizations and increased our residential mortgage origination capacity. We plan to continue to leverage off our knowledge base and customer relationships to diversify our business lines and sources of noninterest income.

Expanding Our Branch Network. We plan to broaden and deepen our branch footprint in order to provide more touch points for our customers, increase market awareness of our presence and enhance our franchise generally. While we expect that most of our growth will continue to be organic, we will consider acquisitions of individual branches or other institutions should attractive opportunities arise. We recently announced an expansion plan which calls for the construction and development of six branches over the next three to four years, using three branch models: a traditional branch, a smaller Xpress design tailored to commuters and drive-up traffic and a flagship Xcel model, which features innovative design, the latest technology and expanded hours and services. In April 2004, we opened an Xcel branch in North Kingstown, Rhode Island, which garnered in excess of $25 million in deposits in its first nine months of operation. We plan to open an Xpress branch adjacent to our operations center in Lincoln, Rhode Island in the Spring of 2005, a traditional branch in East Greenwich, Rhode Island in the Summer of 2005 and a traditional branch in Pawtucket, Rhode Island in early 2006.

Maintaining Our Strong Asset Quality. While increasing our commercial business, commercial real estate and consumer loans, we have maintained strong asset quality. We believe that this experience is the result of conservative underwriting standards, experienced loan officers, diligent monitoring of our loan portfolio, ability to know our customers and a stable economy. At December 31, 2004, our nonperforming loans as a percentage of total loans was 0.08%.

Recent Developments

On January 10, 2005, we entered into a non-binding letter of intent to purchase substantially all of the operating assets of a lease financing business (the Leasing Company) located in the greater New York metropolitan area for a maximum aggregate purchase price of $1.9 million. Completion of this acquisition is subject to the successful negotiation of a purchase and sale agreement. If the transaction is consummated, the purchase price will be paid in shares of our common stock with $250,000 paid at the closing of the acquisition, up to $750,000 payable upon the achievement of certain performance goals over a three-year period and up to an additional $900,000 subject to an earn-out over five years.

In 2004, the Leasing Company originated approximately $20.4 million in leases. In November 2004, we acquired approximately $3.0 million of leases from the Leasing Company. Following consummation of the acquisition, we currently anticipate that we will retain a significant portion of the leases generated by the Leasing Company.

(a) Earnings for 2002 and subsequent years were positively impacted by the Company's adoption of Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) 142, Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets and SFAS 147, Acquisitions of Certain Financial Institutions. These Statements required the Company to cease amortizing its goodwill and begin reviewing it at least annually for impairment. In prior years, the amount of this amortization was $1.2 million annually. Also see discussion under Recent Accounting Developments.

(b) Calculated by dividing total noninterest expenses by net interest income plus noninterest income.

RISK FACTORS

Investing in our common stock involves a degree of risk. You should carefully consider the risks and uncertainties described below before purchasing our common stock. Our business, financial condition or results of operations could be materially and adversely affected by any of these risks. In such case, the trading price of our common stock could fall, and you may lose all or part of the money you paid to buy our common stock. You should also refer to the other information included or incorporated by reference in this prospectus.

Risks Associated with Our Business

Competition with other financial institutions could adversely affect our franchise growth and profitability.

We face significant competition from a variety of traditional and nontraditional financial service providers both within and outside of Rhode Island, both in making loans and generating deposits. Our most significant competition comes from one national, and two large regional banking institutions that have dominant market share positions in Rhode Island, namely, Bank of America, Citizens, and Sovereign. These large banks have well-established, broad distribution networks and greater financial resources than we do, which have enabled them to market their products and services extensively, offer access to a greater number of locations and products, and price competitively.

We also face competition from a number of local financial institutions with branches in Rhode Island and in nearby Massachusetts, some of which have been acquired by both local and out-of-state service providers. Additionally, we face competition from out-of-state financial institutions which have established loan production offices in our marketplace, and from non-bank competitors. Competition for deposits also comes from short-term money market funds, other corporate and government securities funds and non-bank financial institutions such as brokerage firms, insurance companies and credit unions, the latter of which have recently experienced a resurgence in our market. Many of our non-bank competitors are not subject to the same degree of regulation as that imposed on federally insured state chartered banks, which gives these competitors an advantage over us in providing certain services. Such competition may limit our growth and profitability in the future.

Changes in regional and national economic conditions could adversely affect our profitability.

The population in our market area is growing slowly and economic growth in the Rhode Island area has been slow to moderate over the past several years. New England, hard hit by the 2001 recession, has trailed other parts of the nation in terms of general economic growth. Additionally, Rhode Island businesses, like many companies throughout the United States, are struggling with rapidly increasing health care costs, which may adversely affect the earnings and growth potential for such companies, which may in turn negatively impact Rhode Island's ability to attract and retain businesses in the state. Our borrowers' ability to honor their repayment commitments is generally dependent upon the level of economic activity and general health of the regional economy. Furthermore, economic conditions beyond our control, such as the strength of credit demand by customers and changes in the general levels of interest rates, may have a significant impact on our operations, including decreases in the value of collateral securing loans. Therefore, an economic recession in our market area adversely affecting growth could cause significant increases in nonperforming assets, thereby reducing operating profits or causing operating losses, impairing liquidity and eroding capital.

Fluctuations in interest rates could adversely impact our net interest margin.

Our earnings depend to a great extent on our net interest margin, which is the difference between interest income that we earn on loans and investments and the interest expense paid on deposits and borrowings. When maturities of assets and liabilities are not balanced, a rapid increase or decrease in interest rates could have an adverse effect on our net interest margin and results of operation. Interest rates are highly sensitive to factors that are beyond our control, including general economic conditions, inflation rates, change in the slope of the yield curve, business activity levels, money supply and the policies of various government and regulatory authorities. For example, increases in the discount rate by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System usually lead to rising interest rates, which affect our interest income and interest expense. In addition, governmental policies such as the creation of a tax deduction for individual retirement accounts could increase savings rates and may affect our cost of funds. The nature, timing and effect of any future changes in interest rates on us and our results of operations are not predictable.

The Bank's Asset/Liability Committee (ALCO) manages our interest rate risk position by using income simulation, a tool which measures the impact on net interest income, over 12 and 24-month periods, of increases and decreases of interest rates of up to 200 basis points. These simulations take into account repricing, maturity and prepayment characteristics of individual products. While ALCO's guidelines for interest rate risk establish certain tolerance levels, there is no assurance that our exposure to interest rate risk will fall within these tolerances. As a result, there may be a significant decline in our net interest income as a result of increases and decreases of interest rates. Based on our simulation models as of December 31, 2004, the estimated impact in 2005 of a 200 basis point shift downward would be a $267,000 decline in our net interest income while a 200 basis point shift upward would produce a $374,000 increase in our net interest income. For 2006, upward and downward shifts of 200 basis points would result in an estimated decline in our net interest income of $293,000 and $1.7 million, respectively. While the members of ALCO and other members of our management team would attempt to respond to the projected impact on our assets and liabilities of fluctuating interest rates, there is no assurance that any management efforts to reduce the impact of such increases and decreases of interest rates would be successful.

Change in the composition of our loan portfolio may result in greater risk of losses.

At December 31, 2004, 45.4% of our loan portfolio consisted of commercial real estate, business, construction loans and leases, an increase from 40.8% of our loan portfolio at December 31, 2003. We intend to continue to emphasize the origination of these types of loans. These loans generally have greater risk of nonpayment and loss than residential mortgage loans because repayment of these types of loans often depends on the successful business operation and income stream of the borrowers. Such loans typically involve larger loan balances to single borrowers or groups of related borrowers than do individual one- to four-family residential loans. Consequently, an adverse development with respect to one loan or one credit relationship can expose us to a significantly greater risk of loss compared to an adverse development with respect to a single one- to four-family residential mortgage loan.

If our allowance for loan and lease losses is not sufficient to cover actual loan and lease losses, our earnings could decrease.

The risk of loan and lease losses varies with, among other things, general economic conditions, the character and size of the portfolio, delinquency trends, industry loss experience, nonperforming loan trends, the creditworthiness of borrowers and, in the case of a collateralized loan, the value of the collateral. Based upon such factors, we arrive at what we believe is an appropriate allowance for loan and lease losses by maintaining a risk rating system that classifies all loans and leases into varying categories by degree of credit risk, and establishes a level of allowance associated with each category. As part of our ongoing evaluation process, including a formal quarterly analysis of allowances, we make various subjective judgments as to the appropriate level of allowance with respect to each category, judgments as to the categorization of any individual loan or lease, as well as additional subjective judgments in ascertaining the probability and extent of any potential losses. If our subjective judgments prove to be incorrect, our allowance for loan and lease losses may not cover inherent losses in our loan and lease portfolio, or if bank regulatory officials or changes in economic conditions require us to increase the allowance for loan and lease losses, our earnings could be significantly and adversely affected. Material additions to our allowance would materially decrease our net income. At December 31, 2004, our allowance for loan and lease losses totaled $11.9 million, representing 1.34% of total loans.

Our growth strategy may limit increases in profitability.

Edgar Filing: BANCORP RHODE ISLAND INC - Form 424B4

We have sought to increase the size of our franchise by pursuing business development opportunities and have grown substantially since inception. We believe that we have demonstrated success to date in deposit and loan generation. To the extent we open additional branches, through our current expansion plan or otherwise, we are likely to experience higher operating expenses relative to operating income from the new branches, which may limit increases in profitability over the course of the expansion plan. Our ability to increase profitability by establishing new branches is dependent on our ability to identify advantageous branch locations and generate new deposits and loans from those locations that will create an acceptable level of net income. There can be no assurance that new and relocated branches will generate an acceptable level of net income for us or that we will be able to successfully establish new branch locations in the future. In addition, there can be no assurance that we will be successful in developing new business lines or that any new products or services we introduce will be profitable.

Extensive government regulation and supervision have a significant impact on our operations.

We operate in a highly regulated industry and are subject to examination, supervision, and comprehensive regulation by various regulatory agencies. These regulations are intended primarily for the protection of our depositors and customers, rather than for the benefit of investors. Our compliance with these regulations is costly and restricts certain activities, including payment of dividends, mergers and acquisitions, investments, loans and interest rates charged, interest rates paid on deposits and locations of offices. We are also subject to capitalization guidelines established by regulators, which require us to maintain adequate capital to support our growth. Furthermore, the addition of new branches requires the approval of the FDIC as well as state banking authorities in Rhode Island.

The laws and regulations applicable to the banking industry could change at any time. There is no way to predict the effects of these changes on our business and profitability. Because government regulation greatly affects the business and financial results of all commercial banks and bank holding companies, the cost of compliance with new laws and regulations applicable to the banking industry could adversely affect our operations and profitability. At this time, we believe that we are no more exposed to any of these risks than any other community-based commercial bank.

The growth of our business is substantially dependent on our management team.

Our future success and profitability is substantially dependent upon the management and banking abilities of our senior executives, who have substantial background and experience in banking and financial services, as well as personal contacts, in the Rhode Island market and the region generally. Competition for such personnel is intense, and we cannot assure you that we will be successful in retaining such personnel. Changes in key personnel and their responsibilities may be disruptive to our business and could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Our operating history is not necessarily indicative of future operating results.

The Company, as the holding company of the Bank, has no significant assets other than the common stock of the Bank. While we have operated profitably since our first full quarter of operations, future operating results may be affected by many factors, including regional economic conditions, interest rate fluctuations and other factors that may affect banks in general, all of which factors may limit or reduce our growth and profitability. For example, in the past, we have consistently grown our core deposit base, including checking account balances. However, we experienced a decline in checking account balances during the second half of 2004. Although the decline appears to be due to lower account balances rather than customer loss, we cannot predict whether this decline is temporary or reflects a longer-term trend. Similarly, our nonperforming asset levels and loan losses have been extraordinarily low since inception. Industry experience suggests that this is unlikely to continue indefinitely.

Recent changes in accounting standards could limit the desirability of granting stock options, which could harm our ability to attract and retain employees, and could also negatively impact our results of operations.

The Financial Accounting Standards Board is requiring all companies to treat the fair value of stock options granted to employees as an expense effective for the first interim reporting period that begins after June 15, 2005.

Table of Contents

When this change becomes effective, we and other companies will be required to record a compensation expense equal to the fair value of each stock option granted. Currently, we are generally not required to record compensation expense in connection with stock option grants. When we are required to expense the fair value of stock option grants, it may reduce the attractiveness of granting stock options because of the additional expense associated with these grants, which would negatively impact our results of operations. For example, had we been required to expense stock option grants by applying the measurement provisions of Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 123, Accounting for Stock-Based Compensation, our recorded net income for the year ended December 31, 2004 of approximately $8.6 million would have been reduced to $8.1 million.

We have broad discretion over the use of proceeds from this offering.

The Use of Proceeds section reflects our current best estimate of the use of the net proceeds of this offering. We have not allocated specific amounts of the net proceeds to specific purposes and will have considerable discretion in the application of the net proceeds, and you will not have the opportunity, as part of your investment decision, to assess whether the proceeds are being used appropriately. The net proceeds may be used for purposes that do not increase our operating results or market value. Until the net proceeds are used, they may be placed in investments that either do not produce income or lose value. See Use of Proceeds.

Risks Associated with the Offering

Even though our common stock is currently traded on the Nasdaq Stock Market's National Market System, it has less liquidity than the average stock quoted on a national securities exchange.

While our common stock has traded on Nasdaq since 1998 and has developed a limited market, there can be no assurance, and we cannot predict, that an active public market will be sustained upon completion of this offering or that the market price of the common stock will not decline below the public offering price. Because of this, it may be more difficult for you to sell a substantial number of shares for the same price at which you could sell a smaller number of shares.

We cannot predict the effect, if any, that future sales of our common stock in the market, issuance of our common stock in acquisition transactions, or the availability of shares of common stock for sale in the market, will have on the market price of our common stock. We, therefore, can give no assurance that sales of substantial amounts of common stock in the market, or the potential for large amounts of sales in the market, would not cause the price of our common stock to decline or impair our future ability to raise capital through sales of our common stock.

There are limitations on our ability to pay dividends.

Our ability to pay dividends is subject to the financial condition of the Bank, as well as other business considerations. Payment of dividends by the Company is also restricted by statutory limitations applicable to all bank holding companies. These limitations could have the effect of reducing the amount of dividends we can declare.

Purchasers of common stock in this offering will pay a substantial premium over the tangible book value of the stock acquired.

The offering price is substantially more per share than the tangible book value per share of the common stock being offered. The tangible book value of the common stock as of December 31, 2004 was $16.99 per share. At the offering price of $37.00 per share, investors purchasing shares of common stock in this offering will pay a premium of $20.01 per share over the December 31, 2004 tangible book value per share. Also, as of December 31, 2004, there were outstanding stock options for the purchase of an aggregate of 487,805 shares of common stock at a weighted average exercise price of $19.30 per share. The exercise of such stock options may result in dilution to the purchasers of shares in this offering. See Capitalization.

Certain Anti-Takeover measures affect the ability of shareholders to effect takeover transactions.

We are subject to the Rhode Island Business Combination Act which, subject to certain exceptions, prohibits business combinations involving certain shareholders of publicly held corporations for a period of five years after such shareholders acquire 10% or more of the outstanding voting stock of the corporation. In addition, our Articles of Incorporation and By-laws, among other things, provide that, in addition to any vote required by law, the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the holders of our voting stock, voting as a single class, is required for approval of all business combinations. Our board of directors also has the authority, without further action by shareholders, to issue additional preferred stock in one or more series and to fix by resolution, the rights, preferences and privileges of such series to the extent permitted by law. Our board could designate certain rights and privileges for such preferred stock which would discourage unsolicited tender offers or takeover proposals or have anti-takeover effects. Our Articles also provide for three classes of directors to be elected for staggered three year terms, which makes it more difficult to change the composition of our board. All of these provisions may make it more difficult to effect a takeover transaction.

Our directors and executive officers own a significant portion of our common stock.

Our directors and executive officers, as a group, beneficially owned approximately 21.4% of our outstanding common stock as of December 31, 2004. As a result of their ownership, the directors and executive officers would have the ability, if they vote their shares in a like manner, to significantly influence the outcome of all matters submitted to shareholders for approval, including the election of directors.

USE OF PROCEEDS

The net proceeds to us from the sale of 550,000 shares of common stock that we are offering will be approximately $18.7 million, after deducting underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us. If the underwriters exercise their over-allotment option in full, the net proceeds to us will be approximately $21.6 million, after deducting underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us. We intend to retain the estimated net proceeds from this offering at the Company level for general business purposes and working capital and intend to downstream such proceeds to the Bank as necessary to provide regulatory capital to support our asset growth and continued expansion of our business, including the addition of branches. The proceeds from the offering should enable us to maintain our status as a well-capitalized institution as we execute our growth strategy.

Table of ContentsUNDERWRITING

Subject to the terms and conditions stated in the underwriting agreement, we have agreed to sell, and the underwriters have agreed to purchase from us the following number of shares of common stock. The common stock will be offered subject to receipt and acceptance by the underwriters and to certain other conditions, including the right to reject orders in whole or in part.

| Underwriter | Shares |
|-------------------------------|----------------|
| Ryan Beck & Co., Inc. | 440,000 |
| Keefe, Bruyette & Woods, Inc. | 110,000 |
| Total | 550,000 |

Under the terms and conditions of the underwriting agreement, the underwriters are obligated to accept and pay for all of the shares of common stock, if any are taken. The underwriting agreement provides that the obligations of the underwriters are subject to approval of certain legal matters by their counsel, including the authorization and the validity of the common stock, and to other conditions contained in the underwriting agreement, such as effectiveness with the SEC of the registration statement that includes this prospectus and the receipt by the underwriters of certificates from our officers, legal opinions from our attorneys and a letter from our independent accountants regarding our financial statements and the statistical data contained in this prospectus and in our filings under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

We have been advised that the underwriters propose to offer the shares of common stock to the public at the public offering price set forth on the cover of this prospectus and to certain selected dealers at this price, less a concession not in excess of $1.33 per share. The underwriters may allow, and any selected dealers may reallow, a concession not to exceed $.10 per share to certain brokers and dealers. After the shares of common stock are released for sale to the public, the offering price and other selling terms may from time to time be changed by the underwriters.

In addition, we have granted the underwriters an option to purchase additional shares of our common stock, not to exceed 82,500 shares, on the same terms as other shares purchased by the underwriters. The underwriters may exercise this option at any time during a period of 30 days following the offering. In the event the underwriters exercise this option in full, the total offering price, aggregate discounts and commissions and net proceeds before expenses of the offering will each increase by 15%. The underwriters may exercise the option to purchase additional shares of our common stock solely for the purpose of covering over-allotments, if any, made in connection with the distribution.

The underwriters have informed us that they do not intend to confirm sales to any accounts over which they exercise discretionary authority.

All of our executive officers and directors have agreed that, for six months following the closing date of this offering, they will not, without Ryan Beck & Co., Inc.'s prior written consent, directly or indirectly, offer for sale, sell, contract to sell, or grant any option to sell (including, without limitation, any short sale), pledge, transfer, assign or otherwise dispose of any shares of our common stock or securities exchangeable for or convertible into shares of our common stock (other than through a cashless exercise of an option or bona fide gift, provided the donee agrees in writing to be bound by this restriction); provided that Ryan Beck & Co., Inc. has agreed not to withhold its consent to such persons' sale of our common stock to pay taxes (including alternative minimum taxes) arising in connection with the exercise of any options.

We will reimburse the underwriters for their reasonable out-of-pocket expenses up to a maximum of $75,000 in the aggregate, including fees of counsel for the underwriters.

We have agreed to indemnify the underwriters and the persons who control them against certain liabilities, including liabilities under the Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and liabilities arising from breaches of the representations, warranties and covenants contained in the underwriting agreement, and, under certain conditions, to contribute to any payment that the underwriters may be required to make for those liabilities.

During and after this offering, the underwriters may purchase and sell our common stock in the open market. These transactions may include over-allotment and stabilizing transactions and purchases to cover syndicate short positions created in connection with the offering. Stabilizing transactions consist of certain bids or purchases for the purpose of preventing or retarding a decline in the market price of our common stock. The underwriters also may impose a penalty bid, whereby selling concessions allowed to syndicate members or other broker-dealers in respect of our common stock sold in the offering for their account may be reclaimed by the syndicate if such securities are repurchased by the syndicate in stabilizing or covering transactions. These activities may stabilize, maintain or otherwise affect the market price of our common stock which may be higher than the price that might otherwise prevail in the open market, and these activities, if commenced, may be discontinued at any time. These transactions may be effected on the Nasdaq National Market, in the over-the-counter market or otherwise.

Certain of our officers and directors have indicated an intent to participate in this offering through the purchase of approximately 42,500 shares of our common stock in the aggregate. Such participation is permitted where a specific portion of the offering is directed for sale to officers and directors by the issuer. Officers and directors who purchase shares will be prohibited from the sale, transfer, assignment, pledge or hypothecation of our common stock for a six-month period following the closing date of this offering. We are directing 42,500 shares of our common stock for purchase by our officers and directors in this offering.
